

ASPLEY FLOORING

With the housing market not yet regaining its buoyancy of recent years, many people are choosing to stay put in their homes and doing something as minor as redecorating, or taking on a more major project such as choosing to extend. One family in Aspley Guise decided they wanted to stay in their home and make major changes using a local building company.

Once their beautiful extension was complete they wanted to compliment the extra space with quality decor and flooring. They contacted Aspley Flooring to give them ideas and advice.

Mr and Mrs. J decided to choose the Parquetterie Berrichonne French Oak. This went perfectly with their oak staircase and as well as looking stunning it has many practical benefits such as being easy to clean. Being an engineered board it is more stable than solid wood and it also works well with their underfloor heating. The oak board is harvested from a sustainable forest in France where once a tree is taken down, one hundred trees are allowed to continue growing around. The family are delighted with their flooring and have recommended Aspley Flooring to others.
